

Some nights the Moon and stars seem so big and close that it feels like you could almost reach out and touch them, don't they? Now there's a new star in the sky – the Space Station – and it will help us reach the Moon, Mars, and maybe even the stars someday! Can you find it in the picture below? Look carefully!

(Answer on page 41)